BY CARIE

1. The evacuation of the Hohenlohe Kaserne at Potsdam was begun on 27 May. Trucks of the 2nd Guards AAA Division with billeting equipment departed on 31 May, while trucks of the same division, carrying potatoes, left on 3 June. According to rumor, the installation is to be turned over to the Germans. On 3 June, it was learned that the general's quarters was being transferred to Wuensdorf, while three Soviet commissaries were being moved to Zossen.
2. During the period of 1 to 4 June, 101 railroad cars were assembled for loading at the Griebnitz station, 174 at Wildpark, and four at Wuensdorf. On 2 and 3 June, two trains went from Potsdam to Wuensdorf and one from Wildpark to Wuensdorf; two additional trains were dispatched for Wuensdorf at the Potsdam railroad station and one at the Wildpark station on 3 and 4 June.*
3. On 2 June, two troop trains went from Neubuckow and Kroepelin to Wuensdorf; and on 2 and 3 June, two troop trains went from Boetzow to Kroepelin.**
4. Additional troop trains observed included: two from Sperenberg to Wittenberg, two from Eberswalde to Jueterbog and one from Templin to Jueterbog on 3 June; and two from Lieberose to Jueterbog on 3 and 4 June.
5. On 10, 11 and 14 May, seven trains, carrying weapons from the Soviet equipment depot in Fuerstenwalde, were seen enroute to Zittau, Frankenberg, Loebau, Halle, Gera, Leipzig and Pinnow.***

* [REDACTED] Comment: The above information tends to indicate that as of 4 June the transfer of GOGF headquarters and offices from Potsdam to Wuensdorf was continuing. The transfer of units of the 2nd Guards AAA Division, which apparently completely vacated the installation, is reported for the first time.

25X1A      ** [ ] Comment: The trains bound for Wuensdorf probably carried elements of the 62nd AAA Division, while the trains bound for Kroepelin carried elements of the 31st AAA Division.

25X1A      *** [ ] Comment: The trains bound for Wittenberg probably carried engineers of the 3rd Guards Mechanized Army, while those bound for Jueterbog carried elements of the 4th Guards Mechanized Army.

25X1A      **** [ ] Comment: These shipments probably went to the VPD's at these respective destinations. This information indicates that all cadre units as well as the AAA school in Pinnow have received weapons.
